

[Supplementary material]

A deep history within a small wetland: 13 000 years of human-environment relations on the East European Plain

Piotr Kittel<sup>1,*</sup>[ORCID: 0000-0001-6987-7968], Andrey Mazurkevich<sup>2</sup>, Emilie Gauthier<sup>3</sup>, Eduard Kazakov<sup>4</sup>, Yuriy Kublitskiv<sup>5</sup>, Monika Rzodkiewicz<sup>6</sup>, Agnieszka Mroczkowska<sup>7</sup>[ORCID: 0000-0002-3534-7843], Daniel Okupny<sup>8</sup>, Jacek Szmańda<sup>9</sup> & Ekaterina Dolbunova<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Faculty of Geographical Sciences, Department of Geology and Geomorphology, University of Łódź, Poland

<sup>2</sup> The State Hermitage Museum, St Petersburg, Russia

<sup>3</sup> UMR CNRS 6249, Laboratoire Chrono-Environnement, Université Bourgogne Franche-Comté, Besançon, France

<sup>4</sup> Independent Researcher, St Petersburg, Russia

<sup>5</sup> Herzen State Pedagogical University of Russia, St Petersburg, Russia

<sup>6</sup> Institute of Geoecology and Geoinformation, Biogeochemistry Research Unit, Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań, Poland

<sup>7</sup> Institute of Geography and Spatial Organization, Polish Academy of Sciences, Warsaw, Poland

<sup>8</sup> Institute of Marine and Environmental Sciences, University of Szczecin, Poland

<sup>9</sup> Institute of Geography, Pedagogical University of Cracow, Poland

* Author for correspondence ✉ piotr.kittel@geo.uni.lodz.pl

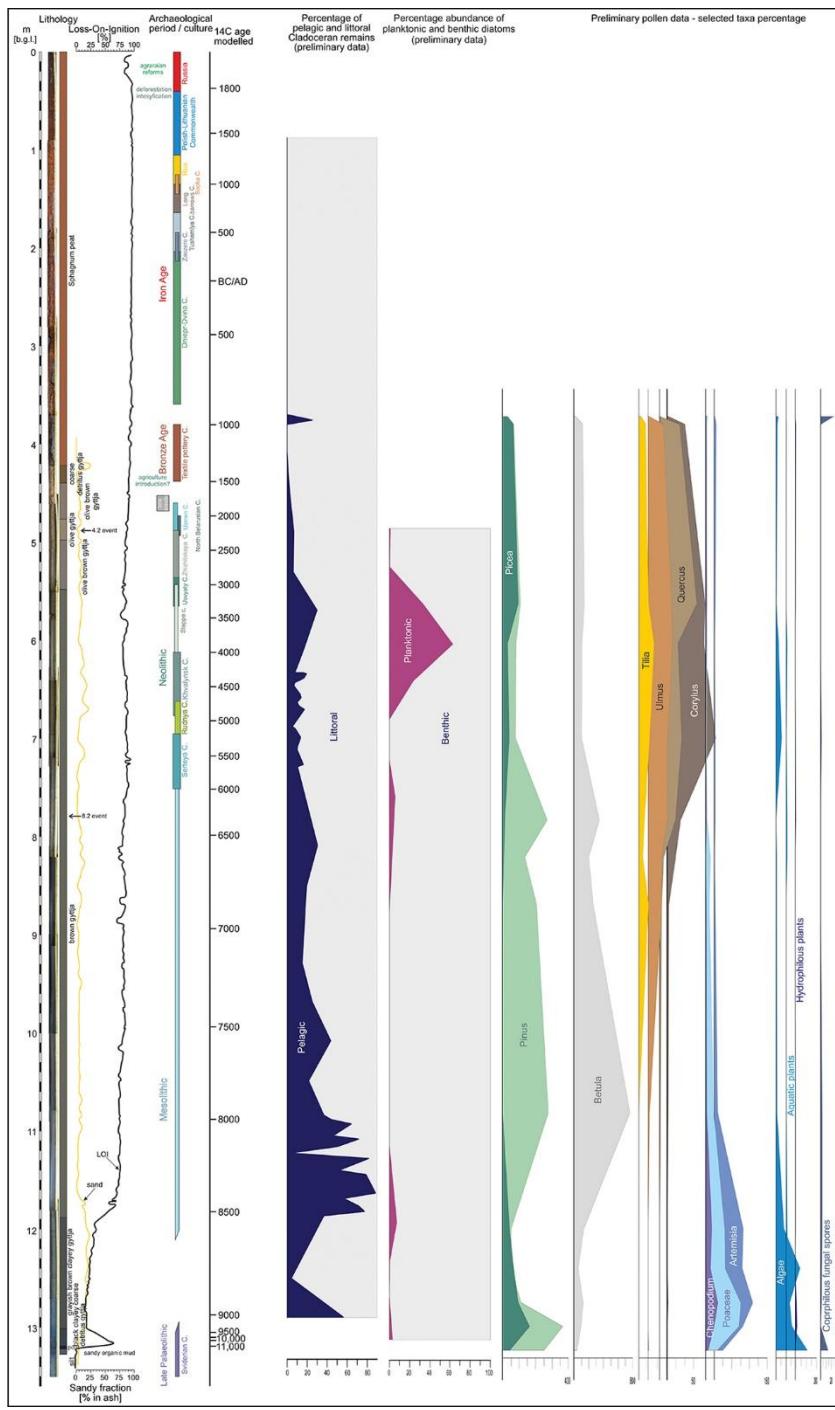

Figure S1. The preliminary palaeoenvironmental data for the Serteya mire core along with its archaeological chronology (figure by P. Kittel).