

Jeff Schlegelmilch, MPH, MBA, Managing Director for Strategic Planning & Operations, National Center for Disaster Preparedness, Earth Institute, Columbia University

Jeff Schlegelmilch is the Managing Director for Strategic Planning and Operations at the National Center for Disaster Preparedness. He oversees projects related to the practice of disaster preparedness and guides the development of strategic planning for the center. His areas of expertise include public health preparedness including planning, training and exercising. Topics of past work include developing inter-organizational processes for operational epidemiological modeling, evacuation and sheltering planning for people with medical dependencies, and adapting private sector business processes to support disaster response and recovery operations. He holds a Master's degree in Public Health from UMASS Amherst in Health Policy and Management, and a Master's in Business Administration from Quinnipiac University.