

Robert Bradley, Distance Learning Coordinator, Virginia Department of Health

Robert "Brad" Bradley has served as a chemist and quality control coordinator for Union Carbide and later as a laboratory IT site expert and analytical technologist leader for Dow Chemical. He then shifted to the Clay Center for the Arts and Sciences as distance learning coordinator and performance manager. During that time he was also the president of the American Federation of Musicians Local 136 and served on 5 non-profit boards of directors in Charleston, WV. Currently he is the Distance Learning Coordinator for the Virginia Department of Health supervising two learning management systems, the VDH video conference network and the VDH Health Alert Network.